Dana Redwing (Tucker) has managed/defended large volumes of commercial litigation, product liability, and employment claims from initial client and fact witness interviews to assessment of defensibility of cases. Dana has successfully represented individuals, governmental entities, and corporations in contract negotiations, trials, mediations, alternative dispute resolutions, and settlement negotiations. Dana's experience includes:

- Defending two major pharmaceutical companies in Missouri and Southern Illinois against claims alleging a cholesterol drug and acne medication caused serious personal injury and death.
- Defending an oil and gas company in multi-district litigation against "hot gas" complaints alleging deceptive and misleading practices and conspiracy
- Defending two of the Country's top hospitals challenging claims of personal injury and medical negligence.
- Managing large volume of multi-plaintiff employment discrimination cases.
- Participation on a legal team which settled 3 multi-million dollar discrimination lawsuits against a major corporation.
- Acting as co-counsel on a trial team with Johnnie Cochran and Willie Gary to achieve a $270 million dollar verdict against Disney World in Orlando, FL.
- Developing and assisting corporations in implementing comprehensive affirmative action plans in conjunction with settlement agreements.
- First chairing numerous employment discrimination, Section 1983, personal injury, and wrongful death cases in state and federal court.
- Providing advice to clients regarding EEOC and other employment related matters.

Prior to rejoining Fox Galvin in 2016, Dana was Chief Counsel for the Missouri Attorney General's Eastern Region from 2009 – 2016. In that capacity, Dana:

- Managed day-to-day operations of the St. Louis regional office of the Missouri Attorney General, including attorneys and support staff.
- Communicated and coordinated with the Attorney General and Jefferson City Administration regarding day-to-day compliance of office policy and procedure.
- Personally managed a litigation case load including, but not limited to investigating and defending state and federal employment discrimination matters. Dana represented clients in mediations, alternative dispute resolutions, settlement negotiations, and state and federal court trials.

Community Service: Dana is currently on the Board of Director's of St. Louis Children's Choir and the Center of Creative Arts (COCA). She has been active in Read Across America, Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Jack & Jill of America, Links, Inc., the Pattonville School District Improvement Council, and Pattonville Heights Middle School PTO. Dana was an adjunct professor at Washington University School of Law 2004-2009.
